President Pleased.

The president leaves Washington well satisfied with what congress has done, the white house spokesman said Tuesday before the departure. He was especially pleased by the non-partisan spirit that marked the earlier part of the session when the world court, tax reduction and foreign debt lements were under consideration. These and the railway mediation bill are regarded by the president as the chief accomplishments of the winter. He regards the cooperative marketing bill giving farmers organizations meral and educational support as of rome help and he is hopeful of the aviation legislation providing for special assistant secretaries for aviation in the war and navy departments.

There was some regret at the failure to act on the Lausanne treaty with Turkey, coal control, Muscle Shoals, railway consolidation and radio control.

Wine Cheap and Plentiful as OIL KING AND SON Waves Wash Ship Cargo

Cologne, Germany, July 6 .- (A)-A drinking orgy that began when wine-laden steamer was wrecked and its cargo washed ashore, has cost the lives of five persons and the serious illness of a score more. Attracted by the wrecking of the steamer which Washington, July 6 .- President and crashed into a bridge on the Rhine near here, hundreds of persons gathered on the river banks yesterday and followed the wine casks, released by the impact. The casks floated down ed on the banks where they were broached freely. The drinking went on until the river banks were dotted with persons overcome by the wine. So disorderly did the drinkers be-

When the excitement subsided it was found that two persons had died of alcoholic poisoning, two fell into the river and were drowned and one was killed in a brawl. OTHER OFFICIALS NOT APPOINTED

George, Told of Action. Says He Will "Wait Until He Gets To Bridge Before Crossing."

Washington, July 6 .- (Special)-Just before he left for his vacation in the Adirondacks President Coolidge today gave a recess appointment to W. J. Tilson will serve during the congressional recess and will continue to serve if the senate confirms his appointment next fall. If his nomination is rejected at that time he will automatically retire, unless the president should send up his name another time, as he has done before.

Senators Harris and George, both of whom opposed the nomination, have left the capital. Recently Senator Harris announced his intention of continuing the fight against the confirmation if Tilson were given i recess appointment and said that the same opposition which had shown itself at this time would be present at the next session of the senate.

One hundred and ten years ago, troubled by debts, Jefferson asked leave of the Virginia legislature to dispose of the estate by lottery. The offer was refused.

In a letter to a friend, Jefferson cited the physical properties of the plantation. At the time of its construction Monticello was the finest social home in America. Foreign dignitaries visiting the country were taken to Monticello and entertained. Three years before Jefferson died, moves were inaugurated in different cities of the country to raise funds to pay off his debts. New York state raised $18,000, Baltimore supplied several thousand more, and other cities brought the fund to about $40,000.

This sum, however, was insufficicient, and a few years later the historic colonial home above the valley of the Virginia was sold to the Berkley family. The estate was about to be divided when Commodore Uriah P. Levy bought it. Tradition says the purchase was made after Levy remarked to President Jackson, "Someone should buy Monticello for the country." According to the story, President Jackson gave Commodore Levy a facetious order to "buy it."

In his will Levy offered Monticello to the United States government on condition that it should supply funds

These plans were abandoned when the south crumbled, and Monticello was invaded by squatters during the reconstruction chaos. Hogs were quartered in the wine cellars and the reception hall, once trod by high foreign dignitaries, were used as storerooms.

Several years after the war, Jefferson M. Levy, a nephew of the commodore, determined to purchase Monticello. An action was brought to set aside the will and when it was sustained the property passed to Levy under a partition sale.

Levy expended several hundred thousand dollars in repairs and opened the house to visitors. Fifteen years ago, Mrs. Martin W. Littlehorn, a correspondent for a New York newspaper, expressed a desire that Monticello should be made a national shrine.

The article created comment and she instituted a campaign of education which continued until a bill was introduced in congress to declare the sestate government property.

ESCAPES IN CRASH.

Five small children and one woman narrowly escaped death early Tuesday night when a light coupe crashed into a telephone pole on Peachtree road at the United States base hospital. One of the children may have a fractured skull and others suffered less serious injuries.

Mrs. C. G. McKelvey, of Bradenton, Fla., who was driving the machine, told doctors at Grady hospital where the injured were taken for treatment, that her small son, Charlie Gleun McKelvey, Jr., fell against her arm, causing her to lose control of the machine.

She, her son and four other children were en route to Brookhaven, where she was visiting her sister, she said.

Lee, C. H. Hilderbrand and Herman Hancock.

Reaches 68th Milestone.

Chief Cody will observe his 68th birthday Thursday, but despite his age he is one of the most virile and best preserved men in the country, his friends declare. Tuesday he performed his duties as usual, making an inspection of different companies in the morning and visiting one small fire at which he took active charge of the battle against the flames.

The present fire department was organized in Atlanta July 1, 1882, four years after Chief Cody first donned a uniform in the department. He served through the entire department from the rank of private to his present post as chief.

He participated in all the big fires Atlanta has had and in the conflagration of May, 1917, in which 1,643 homes were destroyed, and his service in that conflagration is believed to have been a major factor in saving the entire city.

TILSON IS GIVEN RECESS APPOINTMENT

a safe margin.

President Coolidge was finally successful in one recess appointment that he made, that of Thomas F. Woodlock, of New York, as a member of the interstate commerce commission, who was opposed by many southern senators, some of whom afterward withdrew their opposition. During the recess, it is presumed that Coolidge will use his influence to swing enough support to have Tilson confirmed.

ACT NO SURPRISE IN LOCAL CIRCLES.

The recess appointment of William . Tilson to be federal district judge or the newly-created central district for the newly-created central district of Georgia was no surprise in republic-an circles locally. Such an action by President Coolidge has been frankly ex-pected ever since opposition of two Georgia senators prevented confirma-tion of Mr. Tilson by the senate be-fore adjournment.

pected ever since opposition of two Georgia senators prevented confirmation of Mr. Tilson by the senate before adjournment.

Senator Walter F. George, junior senator from Georgia, who is now in Atlanta, refused any further comment beyond recalling the opposition he had made when the appointment was first made. When asked for a statement, he merely stated that he "had had a fight with the president when the appointment of Mr. Tilson was originally made, and I have no comment to make on the recess appointment."

Senator George then reaffirmed his earlier statements to the effect that his opposition to Mr. Tilson was in no sense personal, but was based solely upon the fact that he is not a resident of the district over which he is named as federal judge. "On the contrary," said Senator George, "I regard him as a fine gentleman."

During hearings before the senate judiciary committee on the Tilson appointment, Congressman William J. Upshaw, from the Fifth Georgia district, appeared on behalf of Mr. Tilson, supporting the appointment in direct opposition to the position taken by the two Georgia senators.

Congressmen Divided.

Representative Cox, of the Second Georgia district, also appeared before the committee and stated that every Georgian with whom he had talked opposed the appointment, not on personal grounds, but because of Mr. Tilson's residence. Other members of the Georgia delegation in the lower house declined the committee's invitation to appear on the ground that it was a matter for the Georgia senators to decide in so far as the state was concerned. It was stated, however, that eight of the twelve Georgia congressmen opposed the appointment on the residence grounds.

On the final vote, taken in executive session, the committee voted adversely on the appointment by 9 to 1. Senators Borah, of Idaho, and Norris, of Nebraska, joined with the seven democratic members of the committee, and Sam Purvis, of Commerce sent a letter indorsing Mr. Tilson's nomination, which was read before the committee, and Sam Pur after he gave chase of several hu yards in his own car.

Mr. Tilson on Tuesday night said that the recess appointment did not come as a complete surprise but that he had not expected it quite this early. He said that he planned to make his home in Macon and probably would arrange to move there at an early date.

HARRIS SILENT ON APPOINTMENT.
Augusta, Ga., July 6.—(P)—Senator
William J. Harris this afternoon declined formally to comment on the recess appointment given William J.
Tilson, of Atlanta, to the judgeship of the new middle Georgia judicial district, other than to say that it was what he expected.

Both Senator George and Senator
Harris opposed the nomination in the senate and procured an adverse report from the committee with a certainty of the senate defeating the nomination by an overwhelming majority.

Conflicting accounts of the slaying of Guffin were furnished investigating officers today by Johnson, who is in DeKalb county jail, and W. E. Dooley, who is held at Atlanta police station as a material witness.

No official notification from Washing had reached Mr. Tilson, his only source of information being press dispatches. He sald he received a letter Tuesday from his brother, Congressman John Q. Tilson, of Connecticut, who is republican floor leader of the house, but that the letter was entirely personal and contained no mention of the judgeship.

"I am, of course, very much gratified over the appointment," Mt. Tilson said, "and shall strive to make the central Georgia district an efficient and impartial judge."

Mr. Tilson stated that he had no idea when appointments of attorney and marshal would be made, but presumed it would be at an early date.

They have discovered it in thousands. It is "modern"... not made over. We mean just what we imply.

Many cars have been "modern" too long. Buyers of such "new" cars are due for a "shock" when they look for resale value.

Geneva, July 6 .- (P)-The Amerian delegation took a strong position in the disarmament discussions today against the plans of comparing the armaments of countries by a comparison of the budgetary expenditures. The project was defeated by a large majority.*

Rear Admiral Hilary Jones, in a statement, declared that, while the reduction of expenditures for national defense purposes was highly desirable, any formula for the measurement of armaments based on a comparison of budgetary expenditures was unacceptable to the American delegation because monetary expenditures did not afford either a true measure of armaments or a fair basis for the comparison of armaments.

Committee Adjourns. After the discussion, the military committee adjourned to August I, when it will continue its examination of the technical aspects of disarmament and study especially methods for limitation.

Mingled hopes and fears for disarmament characterized the adjournment. The Lengue of Nations signalized the recess by issuing an official communique summarizing the work achieved, but refraining from comment.

Despite the tense differences of opinion on important subjects, principally saval, it is expected further study will permit the experts to put their finger on the difficulties and complications of disarmament of which work will be resumed in the early days of August.

The American delegation announced the loss of two of its members—Allen W. Dulles, who returns to Washington and will proceed to China to become counselor of the legation there, and Dorsey Richardson, who returns to his post in the state department. However, their withdrawal does not indicate any change in American earnestness and continued collaboration, as Hugh S. Gibson, the American minister, and Allen F. Winslow, secretary of the American legation, and all the naval, military and air experts will remain.

The official communique lays stress on the experts' work in enumerating armaments as, first, the forces in service in peace time; second, the forces prepared for war time, and, third, ultimate war forces created during hostilities by utilizing general resources.

The power of a country in wartime is declared to depend on those factors which constitute its power in peace and on the conditions of time and preparedness under which all its available resources may be applied in war.

watson's full public record is given and explained, the days when he preached federal loans to farmers, his populist leadership, his achievements in congress, important among which was the American rural fr. delivery system; his control of gubernatorial elections in Georgia, his eventual triumph as senator. But there are interwoven with these the stormy personal encounters, amounting even to shooting affrays, hot clashes in the courtroom, and the threats against his life. It is still asked in many sections of America why Tom Watson's following never left him. Mr. Brewton's book tells why—the strange influence of the man is fully analyzed.

Mr. Brewton has put his book, which totals 401 pages, on sale at $3.50 a copy and is handling the sales himself, receiving many mail orders at postoffice box 2172, Atlanta, Ga. as well as many orders by personal subscription.

The communique skirts around the differences which have arisen over the methods of comparing naval armaments by explaining that there was a minority report, which urged the adoption of tonnage by classes as one method of comparing naval forces, while the basis of the standard proposed by the majority was the total tonnage of fleets. This minority report was presented by the American, British, Argentine and Chilean delegations in support of the Washington principle of class tonnage.

After emphasizing the complete accord concerning the methods of comparing air forces by horsepower and number of machines, the communique concludes by saying the committee has recommonded an inquiry to ascertain the most suitable means of placing national defense budgets on a comparable basis. at postoffice box 2172, Atlanta, Ga., as well as many orders by personal BUCHANAN SIGNS COUNCIL MEASURE

INHERITANCE TAX

OPPOSED BY BROWN IN CAROLINA RACE

Union, S. C., July 6 .- (A)-Speaker Edgar A. Brown declared that he was opposed to the principle of an inheritance tax during the meeting of the senatorial candidates here today. In reviewing his record as a basis for asking the nomination, the Barnwell candidate laid stress on his fight before congress a few months ago against the proposed federal estate tax. He declared that having worked on a farm and in a cotton mill and having made some measure of success as a lawyer, business man and public official, he was familiar with the problems of all classes in South Carolina.

Speaker Brown then turned his uns on Senator E. D. Smith, whose sole claim to fame, according to the speaker, was that he was "Cotton speaker, was that he was "Cotton Ed." In this campaign he asserted, Ed." In this campaign he asserted, the senator has not mentioned cotton. Brown repeated his criticism of Smith for his votes on the world court, the Brookhart case and the McNary farm relief bill and continued to criticise Muscle Shoals, the cotton futures act, the freight rate structure, in all of which, he charged, Senator Smith claimed to have benefited the farmers. farmers.

HOLIDAY CASUALTIES.

The people of Atlanta and immediate vicinity are to be commended for the saneness of their Fourth of July celebrating. With a week-end noliday the call of the open spaces was naturally more irresistible than a one-day holiday, and in consequence the automobile congestion was more in evidence than is usual. And yet, on the whole the traffic sccidents were fewer than under normal conditions. The enforcement officials are to be commended, but especially the people who exercised a remarkable spirit of caution.

Why cannot the same cautious spirit prevail all the time? Why cannot the same disposition to conserve life and limb on the part of officials be shown at all times? Why cannot the entire public, pedestrians and motorists, keep "safety first" in mind all the time?

What a difference it would make in the death toll and in the toll of injured as a result of recklessness and carelessness and indifference-and as a result too often of indifferent law enforcement?

Is it possible, a correspondent inquires, to avoid forming the constipation habit if one carefully selects one's food? Or is it better to eat whatever appeals to one's taste and all?

It is a goofy question, at first glance, and the impulse is to refer it to another department, but on second reading I feel that the correspondent has come to the right shop.

Before we wade into the abstruse psychological problem the question presents, let another correspondent file a question along the same line, a question that comes many times a day:

tion for umperal years and I don't seem to find any relief. My bowels will not move unless I take enough physic to force them—and so on for a very sad chapter indeed.

Now, then, it is necessary to clear the track ahead before we spring the answer. The answer is so ridiculated that it is accessingly.

Maybe it is unwise for me to let on that it is so simple, for prob-ably a good many poor galoots with years of training and practice in con-stipation behind them will dismiss my stipation behind them will dismiss my preachment as utterly unreasonable. Whereas if I were to concoct some explanation with a good dash of medical mystery or pseudo-scientific hokum in it those very people might find it quite convincing.

One intolerable obstruction on the track ahead is the popular obsession that certain foods or kinds of food are "binding" or "constipating." This is 100 per cent error. To be sure, certain excellent and desirable foods certain excellent and desirable foods are not noticeably laxative; some are more laxative than others; but to imagine that any kind of food is "binding" is the veriest bunk, or I'm a Dutchman, and no one has ever accused be of that.

Some such arrangement might rescue millions of victims of the constipation habit from their habit, and what is more important, from the damaging by-effects of their habit, and what is more important, from the damaging by-effects of their favorite dope, be it highfalutin stuff favorite dope, be it highfalutin suff favorite dope, be cetera, were poets, with a license to go as far as they liked. Asheville, N. The most effective means of batting the insect, according to Mr. Westbrook, is dusting with sulphur. Results are obtainable only after three or more applications, he said, pointing out that many farmers were prone to become discouraged when, after a single dose of sulphur, the flea was found to be as healthy and as much at work as he was in the beginning.

The sulphur kills the young fleas and is of sufficient strength to drive the old and hardier ones away. With the discovery of sulphur as an effective means of battling the flea, many varieties have been put upon the martist severe of which are not vected.

The above statement was issued by the jury foreman in reply to a statement from Jere M. Wells, county superintendent of schools, which declared that the defeat of the proposed constitutional amendment allowing county commissioner. to levy a one mill tax for educational purposes as recommended by the grand jury, would mean a reduction of the Fulton county school term to six months and a general deterioration of the system. "If it is desirable to raise taxes, why not increase the assessment on county property outside the city, and thereby automatically raise more revenue from the special school levy of 7.1-2 mills on the property?" Tom Rogers, veteran right-hander, whose "double play" ball ended Monday's second game in a fitting climax to the day's Fourth of July celebration, started for the Crackers, but was not right and was driven from the mound in the fifth inning. New Orleans, as in the previous games, began the scoring in the early innings, by shoving across one run in the second inning. Tucker singled after one man was out. Deal singled to left and Tucker raced to third. Gardner flied out to Haas, whose rife-like peg to the plate prevented Tucker from scoring. Lingle singled past short and Tucker scored. Cvengros then singled to right field and Lingle crossed the plate, but when the ball was relayed to second base, Umpire Johnson ruled that Lingle did not touch the bag and the side was retired.

Griffith singled to right, sending Niehoff to third, but the rally ended as Good struck out.

BOSTON CLUB; FUCHS SILENT

Boston, July 6.—(P)—A police investigation into some phase of the management of the Boston National League Baseball club is being carried out, it was learned here tonight, after Judge Emil E. Fuchs, president of the club, and Manager Dave Bancroft visited the Brighton district police station.

The club owner and his righthand man were closeted for more than an hour with Captain Anderson. The conference ended with the summoning of a special officer. The four left the station and were gone all day.

Judge Fuchs tonight admitted an investigation was in progress but declined further comment. Asked if the inquiry centered around any club official or was the result of the disappearance of funds, the owner replied he had "nothing to say at this time."

Fuchs Leaves City.

The judge left for New York tonight to be gone until Friday but declined to indicate whether or not an announcement will be made before his return.

In the first of these, Oestreich, Taylor, Hass and Kennedy bettered the championship mark by finishing in 3:17 4-10, a second behind the world's record. The Chicago A. Scioto Country Club, July 6.—(Special.)—Between baths furnished by tempestuous elements in the form of hourly and semi-hourly cloud bursts, the world's best golfers made desperate attempts today to practice over the beautiful Scioto course with little success.

Uncertain of Shots.

In the early round Watts was suffering from what scientists would term an inferiority complex, being most uncertain on most of his shots and continually berating himself for slightly imperfect bingles. His score, however, was anything but discouraging in consideration of the fact that he had never seen the course until playing the round today and the condition of the course is none too good after the torrents which have fallen nearby all day. On the homeward journey he made a spark-ling comeback with his 35.

The course is a championship lay-ling comeback with his 35.

The course is a championship layout. Of this there is no doubt even after a hurried inspection on one trip around. The greens are like velvet carpets and the fairways are in fine shape, but there are two elements of the course which will test the mettle of the best golfers under the skies. The rough is knee-deep in places and rank with wild grasses, necessitating the use of a powerful pitch to regain the fairway, providing a player lands off the path.

ancient at St. Andrews were the inimitable Jock Hutchinson, the laughing the fairway, providing a player lands off the path.

In places the fairways are narrow, but this condition combined with the impenetrable rough existing on nearly every hole may serve to eliminate the "wild-and-long" players from the running. From all indications the tournament over Scioto course will be a test of accuracy more than length. There are but three par five holes in the layout and on two of these any good golfer can get home in two woods or a wood and a terrificiron. The twelfth, a 546-yard dogleg layout, is the longest hole and perhaps the hardest par hole on the course. The entire course is particularly well trapped and the traps are arranged in such a manner as to re-

Boston, Mass., July 6.—Why is Dazzy Vance, baseball's premier pitcher of the past three years, far off his form of other seasons?

Answer, it if you can but, however you answer, do not make the mistake of counting out Bob and Watts or the great Hagen just because they have had a rest aboard the giant Aquitania.

The match tomorrow will serve to give some indication of how the two greatest aces like the course under the strain of keen competition and despite the number of other matches scheduled for the morrow few golfing fans will miss the Jones-Gunn vs. Hagen-MacFarlane battle.

It seems that the officials of the United States Golf association and those of the Scioto Country club, where the ournament is to be played, have given more than careful attention to the rough of the course.

Someone said the rough should be 14 inches high. Someone else said that it should be a real dyed-in-thesun rough. The officials of the home club, being more than axious to impress golfers of four nations with the hardships of the game as it is played in Ohio, have grown a rough that has terrified the field. There is a longth, say the golfers. To call by name the list of great golfers who are already on the ground ready for the opening Thursday would be but to encroach on the golfing guide which has the names of all of them, but it might be interesting to take a glance by proxy over the faces which were lined up on the great veranda this afternoon while the rain forced indoor sports to take the place of golf for the nonce.

Engaged in a most interesting conversation savoring of the royal and ancient at St. Andrews were the inimitable Jock Hutchinson, the laughing Cyril Walker and the diminutive Bobby Cruickshank, as dour a trio as Accuracy Counts.

So important is this question of the rough that the official wisemen, who predicted that a 290 would win the tournament before they came here, have raised the ante and now believe that the player who shoots a 298 has a good chance. The players who are straight down the middle, the precise boys, are given the best chance. The many dopesters say Hagen will use his iron off the tee so as to keep 'em straight.

But the officials are grining at the kickers. It's a real test, this course. Accuracy Counts.

But the officials are grining at the kickers. It's a real test, this course, they say, and the man who wins will be a good golfer. The fairways are in perfect shape. The candidates include seven American players who were ranked in the first 10 last year. Kaplan Relinquishes Featherweight Title To New York Board

Champion Parts With Crown After Failing To Stay Within Weight Limit-Will Try for Place in Lightweight Class.

Meriden, Conn., July 6.—(By the Associated Press.)—Louis (Kid) Kaplan, today relinquished his world's featherweight championship effective immediately. Inability to make the class limit of 126 pounds was given by Kaplan as the reason for his action.

The announcement follows Kaplan's victory over Bobby Garcia in a title bout at Hartford, Conn., a little more than a week ago.

than a week ago.

Kaplan's championship campaign for the summer included title matches with Red Chapman, of Chelsea, Mass., on July 27, at the Queensboro stadium in Long Island City and a probable championship bout with Benny Bass, Philadelphia contender, at Philadelphia on Labor day. Kaplan's bout with Chapman automatically is cancelled by the champion's abdication.

To Become Lightweight.

To Become Lightweight.

Manager Denny McMahon said tonight Kaplan would seek championship laurels in the lightweight division. This campaign is expected to start carly in September with a bout with Ace Hudkins, of Nebraska, staged in New York.

If Kaplan is successful in his bout with Hudkins, he will seek a title bout with Sammy Mandell, it was nade known by his manager.

Kaplan's action was taken from a standpoint of health. While he worked himself down to 126 pounds for his featherweight title bout with Bobby Garcia at Hartford, further attempts to scale down to the featherweight tipure might prove disastrous to the Meriden boxer physically, in the opinion of Manager McMahon.

Kaplan successfully has defended his title three times.

Other Matches.

Other matches tomorrow will find L. N. White, of Texas, facing Harris Coggeshall, of Des Moines, Iowa; A. H. Chapin, of Springfield, Mass., opposed to Emmet Pare, of Chicago; Donald Odgen, of Los Angeles, facing E. D. Most of Us Need More Moisture Than We Get

You may easily disregard thirst—that is, a little thirst. Many people do-to the point where they have what is known as the "dry habit." They're thirsty without being conscious of it.

And yet you are three-fourths moisture, and are using up the supply every living moment of every day. Moisture is food and a lubricant. Whenever the supply falls below a certain level, properly known as the healthlevel, there is need for more.

Mother Nature does not intend that we should be dry-even a little dry-and she adds taste to thirst to tempt us to refresh ourselves. That's why millions drink Coca-Cola-a drink of natural flavors. It delights taste in satisfying thirst.

Serving this great purpose, Coca-Cola has a record of 40 years of steadily increasing popularity. Only through superlative goodness, expressed in purity and wholesomenese, could such a record be possible.

If the chamber votes these powers, it will be the first time that they have been accorded under the third republic, although it is the second time they have been asked for. M. These powers are not extra-constitutional, but extraordinary.

The socialists today frequently interrupted their former idol, asking on one occasion if M. Caillaux demanded these extended powers for himself or for the whole government.

It was Premier Briand who replied that the whole government was in accord, as were M. Caillaux and himself. A clear majority of the chamber, comprising the moderate radicals and a ocnsiderable portion of the conservatives, cheered the finance minister when he finished his two-hour speech.

New York, July 6 .- (A)-The maority of the plebiscite commission returned on the liner Essequibo today with diverse views concerning the situation in the Tacna-Arica prov-inces which are claimed by both Chile and Peru.

Some members, who would not pernit their names to be used, however, went so far as to say that war between Chile and Peru was inevitable as a result of failure to agree on a plebiscite. Colonel Edward Kreger, of the commission, on the other hand, expressed the opinion that the dispute would be settled by arbitration. He referred to the work of the commission as a "closed incident," but believed that it would be reopened and eventually would result in a peaceful settlement.

Besides Colonel Kreger the returning party included Lieutenant Colonel

The Law of the Talon

By Louis Tracy

INSTALLMENT LL A PROSPECT OF HAPPINESS.

John could not trust himself to utter another word. Some miracle had been wrought in his behalf. He did not rack his bemused brain for its cause. All he knew was that the proud and forbidding father who had cast him off in the hour of his utmost need, and who showed no sign of yielding when the proceedings in the law courts offered a plausible of yielding when the proceedings in the law courts offered a plausible excuse, had now given way on all counts. He could not begin to guess what had happened. But his mind was filled with a great joy; a world which had been dun and dreary for many a day was now brightening into an entrancing prospect of happiness.

Yet his surroundings contrasted strangely with his mood. As he raced along the landing stage the planks creaked and bent under his weight, and Alistair's body moved slightly, seeming to sink even a little lower into eternal night, while John himself, within a few seconds, was utterly swallowed up by the mist. During a brief space the splash of the oars could be heard. Then there was silence. He might have gone from Inverlochtie as suddenly as he came.

Furneaux, of course, had missed no shred of this dramatic interlude. As might be expected, he was sympathetic, and this was a case in which even the strict discipline of the C. I. D. might permit the heart to overrule the brain.

"You son literally had not a moment to spare, Lord Oban," he said, in a voice of complete understanding. "Perhaps I can make things a trifle clearer. He brought with him from Canada an extraordinarily intelligent dog, which, as you may have heard, is now pursuing the man whom of us suspect of being your nephew's murderer. The dog will recognize or obey no one but his master, and he may be in difficulties, if, as I expect, the fugitive has crossed the loch. That is why Mr. Panton could not wait another second. Have no fear! And now, will you pardon me if I make a suggestion? Sir Arthur Frensham, my colleague, Mr. Sheldon, and I myself are strangers in a strange land. Within a couple of hours we shall be wanting some place to lay our heads, as we have been traveling continuously by rail and road since late last evening. Will you ask someone to provide for our needs? And I advise you to get these ladies up to the house. They will go if you bid them. I see your friend's embassy has not been successful. I'll come to you after certain formalities have been complied with."

"Yes, you take the lead in everything."

The old laird's heart warmed suddenly to this queer little man with a provocative tongue, which nevertheless had an amazing flair for saying the right thing.

"You three gentlemen will be my guests, of course," he said cour-

"You three gentlemen will be my guests, of course," he said courteously. "Inverlochtie can sleep a house party of thirty—has often done so. When my unfortunate nephew's body is removed Sir Arthur will be able to drive his car straight up the avenue and into the park. One of the gardeners will show him the way to the garage. Or I can send a chauffeur. Will you tell him this, or shall I?"

"You, milord," murmured Furneaux again, in an undertone. "I have work to do here, and I must persuade our local policeman that while I seemed at first to treat him as a booby, I really regard him as a most intelligent person. Send the stretcher bearers forward. Every other person must go. On no account should anyone cross the stage or enter the boathouse."

Lord Oban was only too glad to find a purpose in life. He busled himself so efficiently that the crowd began to break up at once.

himself so efficiently that the crowd began to break up at once.

Campbell glowered at Furneaux like a stubborn Highland stot when the detective crooked a finger at him. But he came, and could hardly believe his ears when he was swept forthwith into a confidential chat.

"It is you who are really in power here," came the surprising admission. "I had to interfere for a few minutes, or the affair might have developed an awkward twist which would cause no end of trouble. By mere chance I happen to be acquainted with some of its features not other member of the family. I'll tell you all about that in a few minutes. At present we have to act. You understand, of course, that we men from the 'Yard' have no official status in Inverness. We rushed men from the 'Yard' have no official status in Inverness. We rushed north with a warrant for the arrest of a notorious trafficker in drugs, as man named Ferdinand Connington, who, in all probability, is now trying to hide himself somewhere on the other side of the loch. We have permission from your county authorities to seize this fellow, with the assistance of the police, and I have in my pocket a letter addressed to you from the inspector at Mallaig bidding you act with us. Here it is . . . No, don't read it now. Plenty of time for that later. Obviously it has no bearing on the death of Mr. Alistair Panton. That is your business. Anything I have to say is merely by way of a tip from one old hand to another. I suggest, therefore, that you examine Mr. Panton's clothing and take possession of all documents, money, etc., you find on his person. take possession of all documents, money, etc., you find on his person. I'll help you to make an inventory, if you like. Then, while Mr. Sheddon goes with the stretcher to the house and sees the body being locked in a room, of which he will take the key, handing it over to you, you and I a room, of which he will take the key, handing it over to you, you and I will make a thorough search of the immediate surroundings so far as such a thing may be possible by night. You ought to establish some sort of guard here to prevent intrusion until the morning. I am sure that at your request Lord Oban will detail men from the house and estate to keep watch in pairs. You might write a brief report of the murder, if it really is a murder, and send it to your district officer at Mallaig. Don't go yourself, but get a trustworthy man to ride in on a bicycle, paying him, if necessary. Once those preliminaries are out of the way you and I must have a long talk, and I promise you the procurator-fiscal will open his eyes very wide tomorrow. But the story must come from you. Mr. Sheldon and I will be at hand to corroborate you if necessary. Now, have you grasped all that?"

P. C. Campbell had done more than grasp it. He was really a rather shrewd fellow, and he saw quite clearly that he was being offered a celebrity not often attained by an ordinary constable stationed in a remote rural district of Scotland. He saw, too, that his every move was being indicated, while any display of initiative on his part would not be welcomed.

WINNIE

"Ay," he said, with a grudging admiration. "Ye've put the procedure in a case like this verra straight an' proper, Mr. Furneaux. Shall I bid they men tae stan' fast till we search he crop?"

"Yes. You take the lead in everything. It's your job. If you're in doubt, and would like my advice, I'll give it willingly."

Thus far, at any rate, Furneaux had succeeded in setting the policeman's feet on the right path. In later days none knew better than Campbell himself that he might have blundered badly if that odd little man from the criminal investigation department had not been ever by his side. What he did not nor ever will know is the extraordinary restraint displayed by Furneaux. Never had the humorist of the Yard his side. What he did not nor ever will know is the extraordinary restraint displayed by Furneaux. Never had the humorist of the Yard found a better subject for the play of his nimble wit, yet the slightest suspicion of such a thing would have converted his new friend and ally into a bitter and uncompromising opponent. But he had taken the measure of the man at a glance, and regretted now even that initial bit of sarcasm when he lashed out in defense of John Panton. It could not be helped, however.

WAABE SOWELHIN,

ENUINE satisfaction always follows when an organization votes to hold its next convention in Atlanta. The cheers are never the idle cheers of a convention-weary crowd---they're downright enthusiastic for in every convention there are many who have enjoyed an Atlanta convention.

They know that Atlanta hotels---noted for their friendly service---outdo themselves for a convention.

They know that meeting rooms are always ample in Atlanta, so that work, the interchange of ideas, the discussion of business problems really can be accomplished. These things are what make a convention successful.

They know that two-thirds of the United States live within 24 hours of Atlanta, that eight railways run hundreds of trains into Atlanta every day, that time and money are both saved.

They know that Atlanta's climate is moderate, cooler in summer, warmer in winter.

And they know that in addition to its every advantage for the meeting of a convention that Atlanta is a royal host. They know that every charm of Southern hospitality will be shown them, not alone by "Cousin" Fred, the Convention Bureau and city officials, but by every individual Atlantan.

These are the reasons that Atlanta has and keeps an unusual reputation as a convention city. These are the reasons that five and six conventions a week meet in Atlanta. In 1925, the number of conventions meeting in Atlanta was 298. Each year the total grows, for business has learned that Atlanta conventions are successful.

Atlanta's 'Au'd it orium, seating 8,000 people, permits the camfortable accommodation of the largest conventions. The aters, churches, hotels provide adequate space for smaller conventions or departmental sessions. Combined the seating capacity convention use is sufficient for 30,000 people.

Twenty of the finest modern hotels with over 5,000 rooms (over 4,000 with private bath) assure our convention guests every comfort.

Convention foresomes are always welcome on any of the three 18-hole golf courses and six 9-hole courses that have made Atlanta golf famous. Atlanta's country clubs invariably help prove Atlantahospitality.

No other city in America offers a year-round climate equal to that of Atlanta's. One thousand and thirty-two feet above sea level, at the foothills of the Blue Ridge Mountains. Mild winters and breeze-tempered summers make Atlanta a singularly delightful city to live and work in. General average temperature 61 degrees. July average 79 degrees. January average 43 degrees.

The remarkable records which Atlanta branches of more than 650 national firms have made, makes many business associations anxious to meet here to study at first hand the conditions under which these records have been made.

The fame of Georgia's mountains, the lure of sidetrips, the growing interest in the amazing development of the whole Southeast which centers in Atlanta, all draw conventions to us.

New Orleans, La., July 6.—(A)—
The cotton market was an active affair today with broader fluctuations than for some time. After opening easier and declining 16 to 18 points from the closing levels of Friday owing to the prevailing impression that the weather had been favorable over the holidays, the market later in the morning became firmer on shorts covering on the map showing of more rain in the belt than was considered desirable.

The advance became more rapid after mid-session on the publication of a report from the government experiment station at Tallulah, telling of the rapid spread of the cotton flea or hopper. The advance finally carried prices 44 to 55 points above the lows and the market closed at or near the high points, showing net gains for the day of 31 to 35 points.

At the start as Liverpool was worse than due and early weather news was favorable first trades showed losses of 6 to 8 points and the market continued to ease off during the first hour until October traded at 15.70, December at 15.68 and January at 15.67 or 16 to 18 points below the previous close. These proved to be the low points of the day.

After the posting of the weather map showing more rain than expected and after the official forecast promising thundershowers all over the belt, the market firmed up on coverings by shorts and the advance was accelerated after mid-session by the cotton flea report. Near the end Octobe traded as high as 16.25 and December at 16.19 or 53 to 55 points above the lows, and 35 to 37 points above the previous close. The close was near the best.

Exports for the day totaled 5,393 bales.

One interesting new development of the day came in the announcement from Akron that Goodyear Tire and Rubber had cut the price of tires to a level where, with the 10 per cent cut made last February, all of the increases of last summer based on advancing crude rubber prices had been wiped out. United States Rubber led the price cutting last February. Before noon today, United States Rubber, Fisk Tire, Kelly Springfield Tire, Dunlop and others met the Goodyear price cuts.

Partly as a result of the late cold spring, but largely because lower tire prices based on lower crude rubber prices were expected, tire dealers have steadily refused to buy except from hand to mouth and the public has been following the lead of the tire dealers by economising. This left the tire manufacturers with large stocks on hand, made of rubber costing 80 cents a pound or more with rubber recently purchased around 40 cents. From well informed quarters, it was learned today that tire manufacturers are protected against any sharp advance in rubber prices during the next three months.

for a week or more. South American shares were fairly active, but price classes were unimportant.

With the exception of Ford of Canada, which advanced two points on did-lot sales, motor shares showed little change on the day. Goodyear Tire fell back a point in reflection of price uts. Sharp gains also were recorded by a few specialties, notably General Electric of Germany receipts, Johns-Mansville, Landover A, Pratt & Lambert and Superheater, but the sales in each case were small.

The governor also stated that he millage allowed the road department, "as it appears that they have more than ample money now to keep up with present contracts."

The governor Martin suggested that the department adopt some method of discounting its bills, adding that it was the only division of state government that did not have a system of that kind, and that "it would be a tree mendous saving to the state." The discounting of bills is particularly desirable at this time, the executive added, on account of the substantial balance in the treasury to the department's credit."

Inflated brokers loans reflecting excessive speculation in the stock market had more to do than any other one factor with the break of 30 points in the stock market between the middle of February and the and of March.

Naturally, there is much discussion, here in the financial district now as to why stock prices on the average have recovered 75 per cent of their loss from the year's low while brokers loans are up only 22 per cent.

Pressure of idle funds is the explanation of why stock prices have recently advanced more than brokers loans. Around the middle of June, government paid off $335,000,000 maturing treasury certificates from cash on hand received from combined income tax and from internal revenues, still leaving a surplus, whereas it had been expected that Secretary Mellon in order to raise funds to meet

Around the middle of June, government paid off $335,000,000 maturing treasury certificates from cash on hand received from combined income tax and from internal revenues, still leaving a surplus, whereas it had been expected that Secretary Mellon in order to raise funds to meet maturing indebtedness would have to follow the usual course of selling new notes or bonds. This meant that the holders of the $335,000,000 government notes that were paid off around the middle of last month had to find other employment for their money. Around the beginning of this month, investors received some $500.000,000 in July interest and dividend money. Here was a total of some $500.000,000,000 seeking employment.

Independent Steel shares displayed a strong undertone with buying influenced by the statement of President Campbell, of Youngstown Sheet and Tube, that the steel business is better than had been hoped for and that indications point to a good fall. Youngstown closed 3 points higher at 82 and Bethlehem, Republic, Sloss-Sheffield and Crucible sold a point or so higher. Special strength also developed in U. S. Cast Iron Pipe, which closed 210 for a net gain of more than 7 points.

Interborough Rapid Transit closed nearly 3 points higher at 42 7-8 despite the strike of some of its employees. Mathieson Alkali jumped 6 1-2 points to 85, but Allied Chemical dropped over a point on profittaking. Good buying also was noted in a number of specialties. Burns Bros. issues continued their advance on reports of large current earnings and net gains of 2 points or more were recorded by Continental Can, Dupont and Montana Power. Oils started upward towards the close under the leadership of Pan-American B and Maryland.

Charlie Horkran, 12, son of G. A. Horkran, wealthy Moultrie resident, was almost instantly killed early tonight when his bicycle was struck by an automobile driven by Bill Cox, 17, two miles south of the city. Young Horkran and several companions were en route to a swimming pool when the accident occurred. According to reports the youth's bicycle skidded and he was thrown directly in the path of the automobile. The wheels passed over his body.

Local officers are investigating.

ACTION PLANNED TO SAVE RAILWAY FROM DISSOLUTION

Intervention proceedings will be begun by the Georgia public service commission at an early date to prevent the Gainesville-Midland railroad from being dismantled, according to an announcement made Tuesday by Chairman Jumes A. Perry of that body. The intervention will be in support of a petition to be placed before Judge W. H. Barrett, of Augusta, by Edgar Watkins, Atlanta attorney, in behalf of residents of the section served by the railroad. The Gainesville-Midland runs from Gainesville to Monroe and from Belmont to Athens.

Mr. Manufacturer or Jobber, the actual percentages pertaining to failures will change every year; but the underlying principle exists today, tomorrow and for all time to come.

Even if you had no abnormal credit losses last year, or over a period of years—that is no reason for your not safeguarding against the unexpected losses of tomorrow. In fact, the only certain thing about credit accounts is their uncertainty!

No matter what may happen to any of your customers, or when, you are absolutely protected if you carry American Credit Insurance. It cannot help but pay you to investigate this great protective service.

New York, July 6.—(A)—Bond prices drifted irregularly lower in today's uneventful trading session. Buying-interest was at a low ebb except where special developments provided the incentive for accumulation, while realizing sales cropped out in while realizing sales cropped out in a sections which recently had displayed the greatest strength.

Renewed selling pressure against French obligations coincided with the gloomy picture of the financial situation presented by Finance Minister Caillaux in his appeal for drastic measures to save the franc. The government's 8s and 7 1-2s declined fractionally and some of the municipal and railway bonds were heavy. Profit taking forced Rapinrede Rhinelbe and other German issues into lower ground. Scandinavian bonds made the best showing, with advances of a point or so registered by Swedish government, Christiania and Danish municipal issues. Mexican 4s jumped 6 points on a few sales.

The calling of a strike on the subway lines of the Interborough Rapid Transit company accounted for a selling movement in these bonds, which failed to reach serious proportions. Other local traction issues also were depressed, but losses were limited mainly to fractions. Other public utilities attracted little interest, although Great Falls Power 5s were conspicuously heavy, falling 2 1-2 points, while Brooklyn Union Gas 5 1-2s lost a point.

Railroad liens were sluggish, and while Brooklyn Union Gas 5 1-2s lost a point.

Railroad liens were sluggish, and for the most part tended lower. Texas and Pacific first 5s moved up 1 1-4 points to a new top price for the year, but Chicago and Alton 3 1-2s, Michigan Central 3 1-2s, Seaboard refunding 4s and Erie convertible 4s "A" were heavy.

Public offering will be made tomorrow through a syndicate headed by J. P. Morgan & Co., of $10,000,000 20-year 7 per cent debentures of the Fiat company, Italian automobile manufacturers, at a price of 93 to yield 7.89 per cent.

Other offerings tomorrow will include $12,000,000 Florida Power and Light company 28-year 5 per cent bonds priced at 95 to yield 5.35 per cent. The banking syndicate will be headed by Bonbright & Co. A $3,500,000 issue of Peoples Light and Power 15-year 5 1-2 per cent bonds will be offered by G. L. Ohrstrom & Co., at 94 3-4 to yield more than 6 per cent.

New York, July 6.—Raw sugar was steady and unchanged today at 4.18, duty paid. "Atlanta, Ga., July 5, 1926. "Manager Metropolitan Theatre:
"Stella Dallas' is the heart of humanity. Mother love. Young love.

"Stella Dallas' reveals to you the life of a woman with cheap tastes, a tawdry exterior and one sublime streak—her love for Laurel, her only child. That love and the great courage that accompanies it, the supreme sacrifice that crowns it, are the story. It is enough.

"If there were points to criticize, I did not see them. Who dares criticize heartbreak? Blinded as I was by tears, I could only see that Belle Bennett as Stella Dallas gives a performance that is not a performance—but life. She has built up the character of the foolish, splendid woman with a power, a truth, a heartbreak, the equal of which I have never seen.

"Between your tears and your laughter you will see a mas-"The Metropolitan should be congratulated on being able to present such a masterpiece at no advance in prices.

production of the Municipal Light Opera association, at the Atlanta theater, threatens to break all records for attendance, judging from the audience at the first two performances. In the opinion of all the critics, it is the highest achievement of the company so far. Scenically, it is the equal of any production which ever has been brought to Atlanta.

"Robin Hood." most famous of all light operas, will be the bill for next week, and the company is hard at work to make it the greatest production of the De Koven masterpiece ever given anywhere.

Jefferson D'Angelis, noted musical comedy star, will make his first appearance as leading comedian, playing his greatest role, the Sheriff of Nottingham, while Anne Yago will have the beautiful part of Alan-a-Dale, with the song, "O Promise Me." There will be several additions to the company, for "Robin Hood" makes unusual demands and requires a large cast of principals.

Seats for "Robin Hood" will go on of principals.

Bob Larry's Entertainers in "A Trip Through Novelty Land," are the headliners on the vaudeville bill at Loew's Grand theater this week. This is one of the most spectacular scenic productions ever presented in Atlanta and some startling and novel effects are presented. The band itself plays a program of many pleasing musical numbers. Other acts of merit on the bill are Fred Walton and Mary Brant in a lively comedy skit; Harry Stanley and Dorothy Quinette present a pleasing sketch with some attractive musical numbers. Erlay and Halleck, two girl singers, give a program of semi-classical music which is unusually meritorious. Max Cooper and Roy Rodello open the bill with a comedy acrobatic act. Lon Chaney is the star in "The Penalty," the Loew feature picture attraction.

The Howard.

All of the rah, rah, rah, ziz boom bah gaiety of college life has been romantically woven into "The Plastic Age," adapted from Percy Marks' sensational novel, now showing at the Howard theater. The picture is filled with rapid action comedy with plenty of drama for a balance. Featured in the cast are Clara Bow, Donald Keith, Mary Alden, Henry B. Walthall, Gilbert Roland, David Butler and Joan Standing.

Standing.
Prominently featured in the Public presentation, "Melodies Eternal," this week's stage feature, are Rae Eleanor Ball, violinist, and Michael Ball, cellist, both of whom are well known to patrons of high-class vaudeville in which they have been appearing for

At the Forsyth.

Fred Raymond has his first real opportunity at comedy in "Tangerine." the musical comedy at the Forsyth, and being Fred Raymond, he makes the most of it. The story is haid in the mythical isle of Tangerine in the South Seas, giving the artist and costumer a great chance for effects. Don Lanning, as an American yacht owner; Emily Ross as a South Sea maiden, and Dorothy Shirley, Ruth Tester and Milton Reick, as a young couple willing to forget their divorce, are other stars, while Frank Blyler, Fred Brigman, Edna Jacques and others have good parts.

"Tangerine" is the most tuneful production yet given by the Forsyth Players, among the song hits being "Man Is Lord of It All," "It's Great to Be Married." and "Sweet Lady." Lanning and Miss Shirley score it several numbers. Those who have enjoyed former productions at the Forsyth will find "Tangerine" immensely
